Methods of reading.

First lesson was introduced by Mrs. Fanny Walker who first uses words then association of sounds then the sentence as a whole.

Rev. Rice says phonic drills comes in later.

Word Nastery was discussed by Miss Nannie Campbell.

NOON RECESS

Prof. Evans is showing his appreciation and love for his Crittenden county co-laborers by giving them in what may be his last weeks work, the best institute work ever given in the county. This is saying a great deal as we have had many efficient instructors in the past, but he knows his audience, their needs and their surroundings, and deals them out accordingly. Long may he live to glorify this cause of Education.

To G. M. Russell—“G. M. R.”
By O. N. W.

ESTEEMED FRIEND: The defect in many idealists who aspire also to be leaders of men, is that they do not distinguish between the ideal of thought and the action that was intended to represent it. Amiel says, “Action is but coarsened thought.”

To make action fine is possible, but it is not possible to every honest man of high thought. A fine act, a noble course of conduct, an ideal policy—these are the results of ideal thinking. But he who translates high thought into fine action must be an artist of great intelligence, having a trained, creative talent. He who can, out of his own ideals, shape a policy fit to be imposed upon others is one of the rarest of men. But two often one who is conscious of honesty of intention and purity of ideals thinks these to be proofs that his work is worthy and fit to endure. Black's painter in “Shandon Bells” dashes his fist through the picture, which seems to him but a caricature of his fine inspiration. Your picture does not, by any means, deserve any such rude treatment. That we are good in thought and wish to turn that goodness into action, is no proof that we have done so. We should have been spared a world of trouble during the last generation of good men, with high ideals, had been willing to admit that other human beings were as good judge of the quality of their actions as they were.

The essence of magnanimity is the willingness to abide by the judgment of the expert in matters of practice, content to believe that the high ideas has failed to translate itself to its appropriate act. To confess defeat and try again is the way to ideal success. To insist that the action was fine because the motive was high is to make the “coarsened thought” the ideal and masterpiece. You, Brother “Nemo,” have succeeded. Your masterly manipulation has refined the “coarsened thought.” You have fully convinced me that the coming generation will find no difficulty in answering the question, “Who struck Billy Patterson?” All I can do now is to fall upon the knees of my heart and say, “O God, let the vision of Thy glory never be hidden from our eyes in this world or any other, but forever grow brighter and brighter.” Your “last word” that “We have crossed the divide and are going down the slope together,” etc., I appreciate; and in response to your soothing, inspiring ministrations, I, with uncovered head and with all due deference and kindly regards, offer you this, perhaps my last,

DULCES MEMORIA.

If we from whom the passing years have taken all our youth's delight, Nor brought us honors, wealth or fame,
Or that success we deemed our right,
Oh! if we could but understand
That love is greater than renown,
That simple duty, daily done,
Adorned us more than laurel crown!
Contentment still is more than gold,
And his alone the true success,
Whose life “unspotted from the world”

Has known unselfish happiness.
Then let us lead our humble lives,
Content to do our Lord's behest,
Until the evening shadows cool
Proclaim the toiler near his rest.
And when at last, the daylight spent,
We homeward face at set of sun,
Nor wealth, nor fame will worthy seem,
But only duty, bravely done!
Calmly we'll look on either life, and here
See nothing to regret or there to fear.

Today is a cool summer day, full of calm and sunny sweetness. The earlier harvests have been gathered in the beautiful valley, lies in perfect rest—
“Like a full heart, having prayed.”
Ah, my friend, there is a spot in every human soul, I guess, where probation is the sweetest drop that can fall. I'll not inhibitor it with oint or elate—save what has already escaped me. Only the weakness of my limbs—in the branches, so to say—admonishes me that the tree may fall sooner than I expect.

Thanks!

Marion Graded Schools.

Prof. Victor G. Kee, the new principal of the Marion Graded Schools, arrived in the city last week and is attending the institute this week. Prof. Kee is a Tennessean, having been born in Lauderdale county near Memphis. He has charge of a department in the Covington, Tenn., city schools last session, and comes to us with the highest credentials and references.

Marion is indeed fortunate in securing the services of so able an educator to wear the mantle of Prof. Chas. Evans, and that the trustees are to be congratulated is the consensus of opinion, not only in their leader but in the strong support he will have in his corps of assistants who are Misses Sadie Rankin, Frances Gray, Lena Woods, Margaret Moore, Florence Harris, of Corydon, Katherine Moore and Mrs. Fannie Walker.

Monument to E. C. Flanary.

The many friends of the late E. C. Flanary will be proud to know that his brothers, H. T. Flanary, of Memphis, Tenn., Kit Flanary, of Dallas, Tex., Gordon Flanary, Houston, Tex., and Robt. L. Flanary, of this city, and his sister, Mrs. Geo. W. Howerterton, of this county, have all contributed toward erecting a handsome stone to mark the last resting place of this popular and widely known man. It proves their loyalty and devotion to their brother who had few peers as to popularity.

It will be remembered that his son, Walter, accidentally shot himself last winter at Smithland dying instantly.

Crittenden County Farmers Call Meeting.

In Memory.

Mr. James Wilburn Wallace, one of the most highly respected citizens of Sturgis, died at St. Mary's hospital in Evansville Monday, July 3d, few hours after having been operated on for a very serious kidney and bladder trouble.

He was born at Dover, Tenn., April 30, 1846, and was aged 59 years, 3 months and 3 days. When but a boy of sixteen he entered the Confederate service member of Company F, and served all through the war under Gen. Forrest and Lyon.

Mr. Wallace was in many a hard fought battle, having never surrendered until the last hard battle was fought. After returning home he went to farming with his father, for whom he was named, and at the age of 21 married Miss Alice F. Cameron of Princeton Ky., who now survives him.

He continued to make Trigg county his home until 1885, when he removed to Crittenden county, where he resided until ten years ago, when he was induced to move to Sturgis, and with his son, Mr. W. D. Wallace embarked in the grocery business. A few years ago they sold to Hammer Beasor.

Mr. Wallace joined the Masonic order soon after attaining his majority and has lived a respected member of the Blue Lodge ever since. When but twenty years old he united with the Baptist church and for 39 long years, through weal or woe, sunshine or rain, has lived up to the faith which made death just simply the passing from this world of sin and sorrow to that world where the sun never goes down.

For several years he was Marshal of Wallona, Ky., filling the office with credit and to the satisfaction of all.

Some two years ago he became a sufferer from a fearful kidney disease which gradually became worse until death came to his release. His son, Mr. W. D. Wallace, after everything that could be done here was done, took him to St. Mary's hospital on May 12th last, placing him under the special care of Dr. C. P. Bacon, one of the most eminent physicians in Evansville. Dr. Bacon realizing the hopelessness of the case without an operation and fearing, too, as he explained to the devoted son, began to prepare Mr. Wallace for what would mean life or death. This Mr. Wallace cheerfully agreed to as he preferred death to such suffering. He talked pleasantly to his son and the Doctors while awaiting their preparations, telling how happy it would make him to be made a well man and able to enjoy the rest of his three score and ten with his family and friends. But if he should not be able to stand it that he was fully prepared to meet his Redeemer and that it would be far preferable to this world, suffering as he was. He told them that at best death could only beat him out of a few short years.

It was said of him by the fraternity that he was one of the most patient sufferers they ever saw. During his two long years of suffering his Bible was his greatest consolation.

He died but a few hours after the operation was over with. His remains were brought to this place Monday, where they were held to await the coming of his children who were scattered and unable to reach here before Thursday. His son who had been constantly with him had the body embalmed in anticipation of keeping it several days. The Masons took charge of the body until reaching Marion, when the Lodge there took charge of the body until it rested in its last resting place.

Surviving him is his loving wife and seven children, namely: Mrs. Grace Guentzel and Mrs. Mattie Crane of Popular Bluff, Mo.; J. Cameron Wallace of Madisonville, Ky.; W. D., Irene and Tom, of this city; and Ollie Wallace of Dawson, Ky.

Mr. Wallace was a thoughtful, kind husband and father and a much loved neighbor. Peace to his ashes!

The new thing, Paris (Imported?) Tolu flour, is par excellence. To say its good does not express it, for it is something extra fine.

Letter from Texas.

Denison, Tex., July 8, 1905.
Mr. S. M. Jenkins, Editor,
Marion, Ky.,

Dear Sir—Your issue of the 6th to hand this morning, which is about twelve hours earlier than I usually receive it and I think I'll show my appreciation of your paper and your untiring efforts, if you and the editor will just stop this way for just a few seconds. I just don't know what kind of brand you are used to, but will say that the label will read o. k., and we will do the rest.

We are having rains and cyclones galore this year. I am now housed up in order to keep from taking a forced bath.

The dam of the reservoir at the lake broke this morning, putting two railroads out of business for several hours and stopping all the cars on the Interurban electric line from here to Sherman, Texas, a distance of twelve miles. The power house was flooded and the damage will exceed $100,000.

A Houston and Texas Central train derailed over the Katy track into a washout and several were injured but no one seriously hurt. The clouds seem to be growing this morning and we hope for a cessation of hostilities for awhile.

The storm at Nowata, Tex., about one hundred miles west of here, and just southeast of where the awful cyclone struck Oklahoma a few weeks ago, was fearful, leaving three dead and wounded and debris of houses kind in its path.

Have been on two fishing trips

since I returned from old Kentucky and had lots of luck. On the 1st I caught every clinger in the river, got several totes, mostly from the quirtos and night shiners, a mark that we caught three good fish, which we finished in short order. The second trip was the best of all. Besides catching good fish, no quirtos and flies, the log was down. I was sitting suddenly left its embrace and I found myself in about 20' of water with a two and one-half pound bass at my feet. I took my bamboo rod and got ashore on the log and began to wind my line. Mr. Fish gave one more pull at my line and I again lost my grip on the log and by swimming some fifty yards reached the bank and needed no landing my fish, then I began to look for my pole and found him in one convolution of the log at the way I left him. I threw the log into the creek. Well, I fished just one thousand yards more or less to get even with him. Come out and go with us and see the fun.

I see a letter from F. E. Davis in the columns of the Press and will say to him that the Press is a necessity to me and altogether indispensable but that I don't think he does his wife justice in saying he didn't know which he could do without his wife or the paper. Now Floyd I have been in school with you and have attended institutes with you and I am not married yet, but if I could find some sweet little damsel that would share my lot with me I'd let every newspaper go to smash, if such a step was necessary to insure my keeping her.

Well, I guess I will ring off as I am killing too much of your valuable space.

Yours very truly,
HARRY GILL.

The Good Roads, Please

The time has come when we must suggest that we farmers take the matter of roads into our hands and build them ourselves. We have the money and the men to do it.

Follow the system as some would have us do. It is to levy a tax and pike the roads which would evidently break the county for our products and give our support with the taxes. This would not bring the roads in good order, but the roads would be paid for out of our taxes, as the roads will be demanded and the cost of the roads will be paid for by the taxes. This is the system shown.

There is absolutely no reason for better roads and the farmers being first in utilizing and getting a franchise, must be the first party concerned. But the question is how can we upon what plan can we have good roads?

This of course would have to be based upon some system established by the law which says that every man must work some road unless lawfully excused, and under the present system the laboring class has the matter in their hands, being equalized by the present system with a tax already imposed sufficient to pay for all the plows and teams necessary, which in my honest opinion is much the cheapest and best system we can ever hope to have.

To enforce the present law by the coming together of all the county officials, roadmasters and farmers to unite in a strong effort to make our roads good, as the law requires, will evidently result in having good roads.

To vote a tax sufficient to make and good roads and change the law means a very heavy tax without a limit, for while you vote an additional tax, it simply means that the farmer must foot the bill, and mas-

A Poem on Ducks.

Wm. Cromwell, Jr., the ten year old son of Attorney Wm. Cromwell contributes the following clever poem to the Journal.

Nineteen ducklings went to school, Down by the nice pool. We must be in time, said they, For we study, then we play; Old Miss Duck so grave and stern, Taught the classes in their turn. Likewise how to swim and dive, Likewise how to nobly strive, From a stick which bad boys throw, Nineteen ducklings grew up fast, Ducks they became at last, Not one dummy among the lot, Not one lesson they forgot; Polished in a high degree, As each duckling ought to be, Now they swim among the logs, Quacking at the little frogs.

Obituary.
John Edward Gandy, his goodness and many services to the public and his community, from the studious and learned member of one law office in that beautiful city and state of Kentucky, to the less onerous but more agreeable business.

Born near Mt. Zion, Thurman's Creek, Kentucky, he intended to go into the law, but was of regular and good health, the 24th of March he and family left for Boston. How suddenly the change of Providence! While there he became very low and seemed to die, but death, when it came, was not to be taken back to his home, but to heaven. His loving Father gave him the desire of his heart. He reappeared a mere shadow of his former self, but seemed cheerful and hopeful the day he arrived at Repton, which was the 8th of June. In about two weeks, the 24th death claimed him as its own.

He seemed so glad to get among old friends again, and when he was again sawing, sinking he said to his wife, "Carrie, I am glad I have got you and the children back among your people. I dare not die but I hate to leave you and the children."

Funeral service was conducted Rev. N. J. Fox at Repton church, where he was married to Miss Carrie Price, Dec. 14, 1894.

At a clock Sunday, June 25th, his remains were interred at Repton graveyard. It being Children's Day, a very large assembly awaited the funeral procession. It was his fortune to have as many people to pay the last tribute of respect as is ever witnessed in the country.

He leaves a wife and five little children, two sisters, two brothers, and a host of relatives and friends to mourn their loss. But our loss is his gain. His sisters, Mesdames Mag. Nations and Leila McCollum, were with him in his last hours. His brother John was also at his funeral but his brother Will, who lives in Louisville, arrived too late.

Dear wife, this is the sorest affliction you have ever had to undergo, but remember God hath said in His blessed Word, "I will be a husband unto the widow and a father to the orphan." May you take comfort and courage, your undertaking to fill a father's and mother's place is great, but your heavenly Father also is great, trust Him.

To all the bereaved ones we extend our heartfelt sympathy, and may we all so live that we too can say, "I care not to die."

Tis so sweet to trust in Jesus, just to take him at His word, just to rest upon His promise, just to say, "Thus saith the Lord," BELIEVE FRITTS.

OBITUARY.

Mary E. Nunn, daughter of Samuel and Sarah Nunn, was born Jan. 12, 1855, and was married to W. H. Arfack April 12, 1877, and died June 22, 1905, age 50 years 5 months and ten days. She professed faith in Christ in early life and united with the M. E. church at Rose Bend of which she has been a consistent member for more than thirty years. Sister Arfack is gone from us; her sufferings are over. She leaves a husband, two sisters and two brothers and a host of friends to mourn their loss, but their loss is her eternal gain. The whole community will sympathize with our brother in his bereavement, and will admire his resignation to God's will as expressed in the following words: "While the heart longs for her companionship, the head says it's best for her to depart and be with Christ where she can rest from her labors and constant pain. We bow in humble submission and say, 'thy will, oh God be done.'" Sister Arfack was confined to her room and bed for over nine months, during which time she bore afflictions with all the Christian fortitude and courage that any one ever did, until death came and she passed quietly away to her reward. Her friends and neighbors were faithful in every respect, and nothing was left undone that could have been done by them.

Whereas, we want to thank the many friends for their untiring energy and faithfulness during her illness.

Whereas, our heavenly Father has in his infinite wisdom removed from our midst our worthy and much esteemed sister, Mary E. Arfack.

Resolved that in her removal by death the church, to which she belonged has lost a faithful member and her husband a faithful companion, the community a devoted neighbor and sympathetic friend. Her funeral was preached by the writer at Mount Zion cemetery in the presence of a large congregation from the text, 2 Cor. 5:1. "May the Lord cheer and comfort the broken hearted until he says its enough, come up higher." REV. J. R. KING.

Save 1-2 Your Paint Bills

By using Weir's Bavarian White Lead, the most durable and therefore the most economical lead or paint made. It has zinc in it. The zinc gives the paint a beautiful gloss and prevents the lead from destroying the LINSEED OIL WHICH IS THE LIFE OF ALL PAINT. "Pure Lead" by itself will eat and destroy the linseed oil, thus causing the paint to become porous or open and dust off. Weir's Bavarian White Lead is better and cheaper than mixed paints because one-half of every gallon of mixed paint is linseed oil for which you pay $1.50 per gallon and get a moldy, stale, unsound linseed oil. Buy fresh oil from your dealer's barrel at its true value. 4 1-2 gallons linseed oil and 100 pounds of Weir's Lead will make 6 1-2 gallons best paint ready to use, that will cost you no more than other standard brands of lead and much less than mixed paint and will last twice as long as either. Write D. T. Weir White Lead Co., St. Louis, Mo., for their booklet "Facts About White Lead." Weir's Bavarian White Lead is for sale by Cochran & Pickens, Marion, Ky.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce T. H. COCHRAN, of Marion, as a candidate for Representative from the counties of Crittenden and Livingston, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We publish in today's paper an article on the good roads question from the pen of Mr. A. J. Bennett which furnishes some new ideas on the road question. Mr. Bennett is right as to the great expense of building turnpikes and keeping them in proper repair, and the question presents itself, is there traffic enough over these roads to justify the expenditure? There is no question that under the present law, if rigidly enforced, Crittenden county would soon have a system of comparatively good dirt roads, as is demonstrated over in Union county. But there is a pretty large "if" in the way of this happy realization. Heretofore it has simply been an impossibility to awake the farmer to his true interests in this respect. Will the efforts of the future be crowned with better success? That is the problem we are now trying to solve. The Press is not exclusively wedded to a system of turnpikes, although fully realizing the immense value they would prove to the county. If any other system for giving the county good roads can be devised and carried out, the Press will be content. At present the question is an open and a vital one, and we invite its free discussion through the columns of our paper.

The Paducah Times-Democrat says that Al Moore, a fugitive charged with burning the residence of Clem Davenport, near Salem, some months ago, will soon return to Smithland and stand his trial for arson. A woman named Watson was also arrested at the time charged with the same offense, but was subsequently released.

Charlie C. Jennings, who is Superintendent of the "Lady Farmer" mine of the Henderson syndicate, which mines join the celebrated "Old Jim" property, has been hauling considerable carbonate of zinc here recently. One carload of 60,000 lbs. was shipped last week. This property has one of the best veins in the entire district.

We present the readers of the Press this week with a full synopsis of the proceedings of the Teachers Institute up to the hour of going to press. The report will be concluded next week. The synopsis was furnished by our wide-awake Starr correspondent, Mr. J. B. McNeely.

A sensational rumor from St. Petersburg says that a plot is being crystallized having for its object the de-thronement of the present Emperor and the elevation of his infant son to the Czarship, with one of the Grand Dukes as Regent ad interim.

The sheriff of Princeton came down Saturday night and took the two Campbells into custody and at this writing are unable to say as to their bail. Lizenbee the wounded man is getting along very well. ### Obituary.

Uncle Billy Kemp, one of our oldest and most highly respected citizens, after an illness of some weeks, died at his home near Shady Grove July 5th. Two months and seven days added to his life would have made him 79 years old, his stay on earth dating back to Sept. 13, 1826.

As an example of industry and irreproachable citizenship, he unquestionably stood as a safe and honorable pattern, by and after which all men could well afford to shape and square their lives. His friends were many, if he had enemies they were few and unknown. All of his days were spent in this locality, he was born within one hundred feet of the present family residence, where he died.

Uncle Billy entered the religion of the cross some time after he had passed the middle milestone of his years, and married with the M. E. church at Shady Grove, in which connection he remained until the close of his earthly career. And it is said to his lasting credit that there are no mists nor clouds to gather from his manifold misdeeds of doing to hang over his tomb to distract or break his peaceful rest, where he now sleeps beside a former wife, the mother of all his children.

Uncle Billy leaves a wife, four sons and two daughters, one brother and one sister, who deeply realize their loss. But as a precious comforting heritage he left to his friends and loved ones, the consoling assurance that all was well with him, between his Saviour and himself, and he fell asleep in Jesus to awake in the brighter clinic of Heaven.

At the close of appropriate divine services, conducted by his pastor, Rev. T. F. Roland his mortality was deposited in its last earthly abode, in Shady Grove cemetery July 6th, 1905.

Many friends bore testimony of their appreciation of the life of Uncle Billy by their presence at the funeral.

By his friend,

FRANK L. ATWOOD.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Elvira Jane Alexander, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Travis was born at the old Travis homestead in Crittenden County, Ky., Feb. 22nd, 1847 and departed this life June 28th, 1905, meeting her death in the terrible tornado which swept away her home six miles north east of Phillipsburg, Kansas.

She was 58 years, 4 months and 6 days old. She professed religion at the annual camp-meeting at Piney Fork in 1865. In September after the camp-meeting she joined the M. E. church to which her parents belonged and remained a member of that church until after her marriage. She joined the Cumberland Presbyterians church at Piney Fork, to which her husband belonged and remained a member of that church until his death.

She was joined in marriage with John J. Alexander, March 26, 1868. To them were born eight girls, three of whom became in later life the glory world. The five who left to mourn the loss of this dear Christian mother are Mrs. Eliza A. Miss Dora Alexander, Mrs. Anna Paris, Mrs. Anna Paris, and Miss May Alexander, deceased, the one who was severely injured in a dreadful tornado all of Phillipsburg, Kansas.

She also leaves four brothers, L. E. and T. G. Travis, of Marion, Ky., M. and J. H. Travis, of the same neighborhood and two sons, M. A. L. Travis of Marion, and M. A. F. Early of the Study room, Marion, Ky.

She was a woman of strong character and determination, a true mother to her children, for God had given her a band of helpers who were devoted to their children. She was a true saint, her heart steeled in constant devotion. And I have often thought to say that if it were possible to live to go to a storm in the world, to go from earth to Heaven, just the way and that she who was destined to meet her dear Savior in the clouds, he would make all those trials.

Her loving husband died first, for he has lost a faithful heart. Her children will be lost, too, because they have been separated from the heart of the home. Her brothers and sisters will be gone, too, because the family circle is broken.

But though she is gone, her memory is left, with an influence that makes her greater spirit and she still lives through, sacrificing deeds that will abide in eternity.

As the gentlest person, she, with the rarest tact and grace, perfumes to adorn his kingdom of dear ones, let us the comfort of the knowledge that she is gone to the one of its richest gems, that we may find a richer setting around the king's throne, and she has been chosen because of her fitness to make Heaven more attractive to us.

It can truly be said, that piety penetrated her entire being. No one could help admiring her purity and loveliness of soul, that we feel assured that she has exchanged pain for joy, and a crown for a crown.

The funeral was held Thursday afternoon June 29th, at the Trotter home, Rev. L. W. Kemp preaching the sermon from Matthew 6:20. "Lay up your treasure in Heaven." A large number of sorrowing friends and neighbors followed the remains to Fairview cemetery at Phillipsburg. What is death to her who meets it with an upright heart?

A quiet haven where her shattered bark
Habors secure 'till the rough storm is passed.
Perhaps a passage overhung with clouds.
But at its entrance a few leagues beyond
Opening to kinder skies and milder suns
And seas pacific as the soul that seeks them.

MARY SISTER.

A Grim Tragedy

is daily enacted in thousands of homes, as death claims, in each one, another victim of consumption or pneumonia. But when coughs and colds are properly treated, the tragedy is averted. F. G. Huntley, of Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "My wife had the consumption, and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, which cured her, and today she is well and strong." It kills the germs of all diseases. One dose relieves. ## The Joy of Home Coming.

The train lurched forth with a shriek and a roar,
And speed off toward a Southern clime;
A tired boy smiled, his vacation was on,
He was leaving the city behind.
The scenery seemed fleeing to a world beyond,
On myriads of changing wings.
The cherries smiled at the clover blooms,
And the children waved from their grapevine swings.
The gray rock walls overgrown with ferns,
Towered o'er the track with wonderous height,
That pierced the sky's ethereal blue
And hid the sun's life-giving light.
In the dense green woods the cattle
Knee deep in the cooling stream,
And the song-birds flitted through the underwood,
Like a rainbow's mystic gleam.
The tired boy to the business world
His weary eyes then closed
And fondly dreamed of the old home place,
Where the Cumberland gently flows.
Where each familiar object shared,
His childhood's joy, naught to condemn,
Back to the quiet country town,
And to the folks who believed in him,
That women's best weapon is her weakness.
That home is more than half what you have.
That he is just as anxious to get you as you are.
That wives are unusually favored in the country.
That his experience cannot help it all the time.

Sonnet.

BY O. O. W.

O world, thou choosest not the better part.

It is wisdom to be only wise,

And on the inward vision close the eyes,

But it is wisdom to believe the heart,

Our knowledge is a torch of smoky pine,

That lights the pathway but one step ahead

Across a void of mystery and dread.

Bid, then, the light of tender faith to shed

By which alone the mortal heart is lead

Unto the thinking of the thought divine.

EXCURSIONS TO THE WEST

To the Pacific Coast—to California, Oregon, Washington—round-trip, long transit and return limits, liberal stop-over privileges.

The rate is practically on the basis of one fare for the round trip. Of course, if you wish to visit both California and Oregon or Washington, the cost is slightly more.

These reduced rates are in effect on certain dates in months of May to October, inclusive. They apply from all Eastern points via Chicago, St. Louis or Memphis gateways. The Rock Island System will take you up in either Chicago or St. Louis, or at hundreds of other Middle West points and carry you to the Coast in through Standard or Tourist Sleepers with unexcelled Dining Car service. The Rock Island also affords a choice of routes: on the "Scenic" route you can stop off in Colorado—see Salt Lake City—visit Yellowstone National Park; on the "Southern" route you can go via El Paso, thru New Mexico, then "up coast" to San Francisco and on to Portland or Seattle if desired.

In short, these Pacific Coast excursions offer an unusually good chance to see our western country in a comprehensive manner.

If you desire to go only as far as Colorado, there are excursion rates in effect to that section and return, all summer long, specially reduced June 30 to July 4, August 12 and 13, and August 30 to September 4. Extension trips to Ogden or Salt Lake and return at low cost also.

From September 15 to October 31, one-way tourist or "colonist" tickets will be on sale to California and the Pacific Northwest—about half regular fare.

If interested, send name and address on this coupon, designating which booklet wanted and to what point you plan to go. Name probable date of start also, so we can advise definitely with respect to rates, etc.

STARR.

Dear Cousins of the West—Your letters of recent date at hand and contents noted. Some of them bring good news, but that one from Miss Leah Andrews, was a sad one as it gave all the particulars of little Reatha's death, and we extend our sympathy to the bereaved relatives.

Since our last letter several happenings have taken place.

We are having good rains and the corn crop is just simply fine and everything now looks prosperous.

Now you wanted to know about the Piney Camp-meeting. All we have to say is no announcements made yet.

Our wheat crop is just only moderate but it is selling at a fair price and that is making up for the slight in quantity.

Oh my! you all ought to see new Marion. Every building on the burnt district is being replaced with brick of the latest and modern style.

They are just beautiful and Marion is laying the foundation for a great city and when you all come back from the west a few years hence you will not see "Old Marion" but the new and substantial city of Western Kentucky.

You have asked us to give all the news so here it is. Our farmers are threshing wheat, cutting hay, finishing up their corn crop and working their tobacco, our merchant is busy exchanging goods for country produce; a few are attending church at Enon, our good women and children are gathering and canning black berries; our road is being worked and the mud scare is over.

Mrs. Belle McNeely, of Paducah, is visiting in this section.

One friend is J. B. Bradley is yet in very bad health and Mrs. Pauline Morse is very low at this hour and is not expected to live but a few days.

"Billy" Riley has just come in from Washington and he is not speaking very loud in praise of the land of "flitteringers."

A little child of Clay Wooten was buried here Sunday.

Quite a number of our people went to camp meeting Sunday.

The little son of James Bailey fell on a knife of some kind recently and cut his ankle severely.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherley Pickering and daughter Mary went to Pinckneyville Saturday night.

NINETY YEARS YOUNG.

John W. Oliver is Active as an Editor at Home and Abroad.

A Journalist still in active service who almost looks like the twentieth century with the eighteenth is John W. Oliver, veteran editor of the Youkers (N. Y.) Statesman. Mr. Oliver recently celebrated his ninetieth birthday. He saw Thomas Jefferson and John Adams, and shook hands with Lafayette. He witnessed the driving of the first spike in the construction of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, the act having been performed by Charles Carroll, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Though his boyhood memories are associated with the men who were prominent in the eighteenth century and the Revolution ary period, he is busy today helping to solve through the press the problems incident to the complicated civilization of the twentieth century.

Mr. Oliver was born in Baltimore April 30, 1815. He learned the printing trade, and at twenty walked from Baltimore to New York, which he reached

JOHN W. OLIVER.

In an almost penniless condition, leaving only 6 cents in his pocket. But he at once found a position in a printing office, and in a month's time was foreman. Two years later he was running an office of his own. He applied steam machinery to job printing and helped to revolutionize the trade. In 1848 he organized the Washington movement in New York, and in 1842 joined with a brother in organizing the Sons of Temperance. They also published a temperance paper. In 1872, when he was nearing the editor-in-chief age, according to Oster, he sold out his printing business, but within a month he had formed a company, which bought the paper, and he thus became its principal owner as well as editor. In 1888 he established the present daily edition of the Statesman. It had been published as a weekly for twenty years previous to that time. In 1890, at eighty-four years of age, he married for the third time.

Mr. Oliver is at his desk in the Statesman office every day and usually does considerable of the editorial work of the paper. His home is three-quarters of a mile from the office, and he always walks back and forth for exercise.
